Conditions for the acceptance of your Assistance / Guide Dog in the cabin

Licensed Guide Dogs that assist a passenger in certain functions are allowed to travel in the aircraft cabin without cost. Dogs are not allowed on the seat. Your dog should fit on the floor in front of your own seat and may not impede the legroom of another passenger, aisle or emergency exit. If there is no suitable space to accommodate a large dog in the cabin, the dog can be transported in the hold at no extra charge (provided you have an appropriate and suitable kennel present).

Trained dogs behave correctly in public and immediately follow the instructions of their owners. If this is not the case, you may be asked for details of the training and behavior of the dog. If your service dog does not behave properly, it can be refused in the cabin. The dog must wear a (car) harness and be secured to your seatbelt during the entire flight.

Air Malta recommends you request transport of your Guide Dog at least 48 hours before departure. Please contact Air Malta MEDICAL HELP DESK for questions and additional information. The restrictions on travelling with animals can differ per country. Passengers are responsible for arranging any necessary formalities.

What you need to know

An assistance dog is any guide dog, signal dog or other dog specially trained to provide personal assistance, to people who use power or manual wheelchairs, have balance issues, have various types of autism, need seizure alert or response, need to be alerted to other medical issues like low blood sugar, or have psychiatric disabilities.

Dogs are the only assistance animals accepted on Air Malta flights.

Air Malta is not required to:

- Deny boarding to another passenger on a flight in order to provide accommodation to a passenger with an assistance animal
- Allow more than one seat per ticket
- Provide a seat in a travel class other than the one that has been paid for.

Some countries have restrictions for animals travelling to that country. We therefore advise you to take any precautionary measures (such as having a valid animal passport and proof of vaccinations) that would apply when taking your assistance animal to such a country.

Circumstances under which your dog could be refused

If your dog does not behave appropriately in public places as described under 'Well-trained assistance dog', Air Malta does not consider your dog as an assistance dog and your dog will be refused. When in doubt, you may be asked to provide additional information to confirm your dog is actually an assistance dog. If you cannot give a plausible verbal explanation, Air Malta may ask you to provide additional written proof.

Well-trained assistance dog

Assistance dogs are trained to behave properly in public settings. A properly trained assistance dog will remain at its owner's feet. It does not run around, bark or growl, bite or jump on people. A dog that shows disruptive behavior has not been trained successfully. Therefore, Air Malta is not required to treat such a dog as an assistance dog, even if the dog has a supporting role for a physically challenged passenger or is necessary for a passenger's emotional well-being.

The Assistance Dog must have been specifically trained, assessed and accredited for this function by an organisation that specializes in training of assistance dogs. Air Malta staff may request documentation as proof of such training.

"Assistance dogs in training" do not yet meet the legal definition of "Assistance Dog" and Air Malta does not allow these dogs into the cabin.

Documentation for your Assistance Dog

If you need to bring your Assistance Dog on board with you, you must make a request by contacting AIR MALTA MEDICAL HELP DESK at least 48 hours before departure. The law allows airline staff to ask for documentation as a means of verifying that the dog is an Assistance Dog. For the carriage of assistance dogs, within the form there is a section which is to be completed by a recognized medical health professional (medical doctor), which states the necessity for you to be travelling with your Assistance Dog. All fields within this section are mandatory and must include contact information of your recognized medical health professional for verification purposes. You can also contact AIR MALTA MEDICAL HELP DESK for questions and additional information.

Signed statement from a recognised medical health professional

By signing the medical declaration on the application form, a medical health professional is confirming that the passenger has a medical condition requiring an assistance dog on the flight, and that Air Malta may contact him/her by telephone or email for verification purposes.

Air Malta will not ask you about the nature of your disability.

Why documentation is necessary

- The purpose of documentation is to substantiate the passenger's disability-related need for the dog's accompaniment, which Air MALta may require as a condition to permit the dog to travel in the cabin.
- If a passenger's verbal assurance is not credible, Air Malta may require documentation as a condition for allowing the dog to travel in the cabin.

In the cabin

Passengers travelling with an assistance / service dog are permitted to be seated in any seat, unless the dog obstructs an aisle or other area that must remain unobstructed for safety reasons.

- If an assistance dog does not fit in the assigned location, the passenger and the assistance dog should be relocated to another seat in the cabin within the same travel class where the dog will either fit under the seat in front of the passenger or not create an obstruction.
- If necessary, other passengers can be requested to change seats in order to accommodate an assistance dog.
- If no single seat in the cabin will accommodate the dog and passenger without creating obstruction, passenger may be offered the option of travelling on a later flight or having the assistance dog travel in the hold. Air Malta will not charge passengers with disabilities for services required, including transport of their assistance dogs in the hold.
- During the entire flight, the dog must wear a (car) harness and must be tied to the passenger seatbelt.

Cost

Transporting an assistance dog / guide dog in the cabin is free of charge.

At the airport

To obtain a boarding pass, you must report to the Air Malta check-in desk.

When in doubt, Air Malta staff may request that you provide additional information to ensure that your dog is actually an assistance dog. If you cannot give a plausible verbal explanation, additional written proof may be requested.
